EXPLANATION

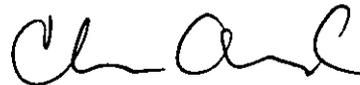

This project will make renovations to the Army Aviation Support Facility (AASF) Fuel Storage Building. New insulated metal panels will be installed on the existing masonry exterior walls to increase the insulation value. Also, a new standing seam metal roofing and board insulation will be installed over the existing metal roof deck. Several cracks in the concrete slab will be repaired to prevent jet fuel from flowing into the subgrade. Numerous electrical devices will be replaced with new explosion-proof devices to meet current code requirements.

The existing building was originally constructed using single wythe concrete block walls with painted interior and exterior finishes. The finishes, both inside and outside, are deteriorating and allowing moisture into the block. The moisture is causing lower insulation values and water damage to the walls and paint finish. The existing metal roof is 19 years old and nearing the end of its life expectancy. The new roofing system will provide better insulation and increase energy efficiency for the conditioned spaces. The cracks in the concrete slab allow jet fuel to flow into the subgrade, making clean-up of spills difficult. Numerous electrical devices have been replaced over the years with explosion-proof devices, as required by building and safety codes. This project will continue that effort.

The contractor has been pre-qualified by the Department of Transportation. The contract has been approved by the Department of Justice as to form and execution; and the Dept. of Military Affairs & Veterans Services has certified that the necessary funds are pending. Copies of the fully executed contract are on file at the Secretary of State's Office and the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Public Works Design and Construction.

Attached please find a copy of the tabulation of bids for this project along with the contract supplemental information sheet.

Respectfully submitted,

Charles M. Arlinghaus,
Commissioner

CONTRACT SUPPLEMENTAL INFORMATION SHEET

PROJECT: DPW Project No. 81187R, Contract A – AASF Fuel Storage Building Renovations

DESCRIPTION: Installation of new insulated metal panels on the existing masonry exterior walls to increase insulation value and new standing seam metal roofing and board insulation over the existing metal roof deck. Repair of several cracks in the concrete slab that allow jet fuel to flow into the subgrade, complicating clean-up of spills. Replacement of numerous electrical devices with new explosion-proof devices to meet code requirements.

EXPLANATION: The existing building was originally constructed with single wythe concrete block walls with painted interior and exterior finish. The finish both inside and outside is deteriorating allowing moisture into the block, causing lower insulation values and water damage to the wall and paint finish. The cracks in the concrete slab allow jet fuel to flow into the subgrade making clean-up of spills difficult. Numerous electrical devices have been replaced over the years with non-explosion proof devices in non-compliance with building and safety codes.
